Dear District Attorney:

The Pennsylvania Board of Probation and Parole, in accordance with the Prisons and Parole Code, 61 Pa.C.S. §§ 6131, 6132, 6137 (g), 6139 (c), has scheduled the above-named inmate for parole consideration. Review of the case, including an interview, is scheduled for JANUARY 2018. It is the practice of the Board to interview an inmate four months prior to the expiration of the minimum sentence in order to facilitate the timely completion of the decision-making and release processes. Please be advised, that the inmate will not be released from confinement prior to the expiration of the minimum sentence if approved for parole. Your recommendations regarding the inmate's possible release on parole will be taken into consideration by the Board. To insure that your recommendations are provided during the Board's decision-making process, please submit the enclosed Memorandum form or other written comments by JANUARY 8, 2018. If not received by that date, the Board shall presume that there are no objections to the inmate's release on parole.

The Crime Victims Act, 18 P.S. §§ 11.101 et seq., includes the right of crime victims to submit prior comment on certain release decisions made by the Board of Probation and Parole. Any crime victim wishing to exercise his/her right under this law should contact the Pennsylvania Office of the Victim Advocate at 1-800-563-6399 (Board of Probation and Parole).

If you have further questions, please do not hesitate to contact my office.

Respectfully,

Steve:

I hope all is well. It's been a while since we last spoke.

I called you last week. I'll presume you didn't get the message since I hadn't heard back.

I am working on developing a pro bono project relating to Human Trafficking. I have been in touch with Shea Rhodes at the Villanova Law Institute to Address Commercial Sexual Exploitation.

We would like to meet with you about a couple of different things – victim centered prosecutions, vacatur, the pending safe harbor legislation (SB 554). Villanova has developed a curriculum for prosecutors, law enforcement and the victims services professionals who work together. They have done it three times throughout the state with positive feedback.

Shea would come in from Philly if we can set something up.

Please let back to me and let me know if we can get on your calendar next year

Subject: AF New Medical Opportunities Orientation

Attention all Animal Friends Volunteers!

Have you ever wondered what mysteries lurk in the medical hallway? Or ever thought that you might be just what the doctor ordered? If so, we have an opportunity for you.

On December 14th and December 21st the Medical Team is hosting two volunteer orientation events from 2:00 pm - 4:00 pm and we are inviting you to come and see first-hand what it would be like to volunteer for one of the most demanding and rewarding experiences (our opinion of course) within the organization.

The Medical Wellness Coordinator will give a tour of the suite and a presentation on the types of positions available within the medical department and the animal handling requirements to fill these positions.

If you're interested, don't delay! Space is limited. We look forward to seeing you there.

If you have additional questions, please feel free to reach out to our Medical Wellness Coordinator at emiller@thinkingoutsidethecage.org.

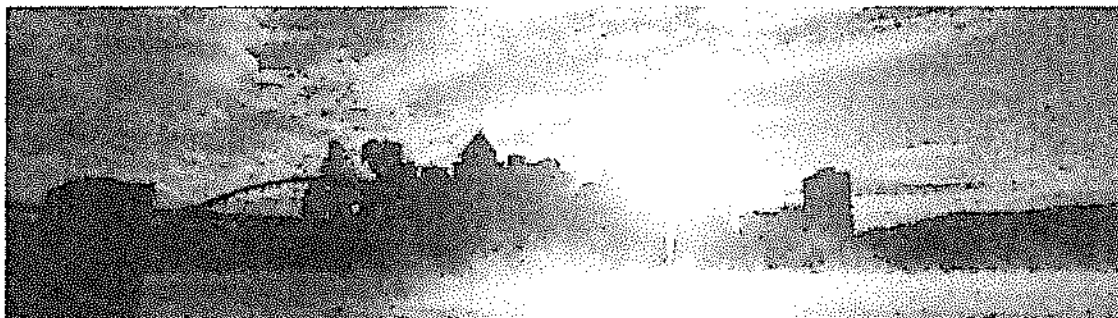

As Pittsburgh's community animal resource center, we need your support for our animals and the programs that serve Southwestern Pennsylvania. To volunteer at Animal Friends, please visit our website at: www.ThinkingOutsideTheCage.org

Click on the link below to change your message preferences for communications from Animal Friends. Please note that we only send messages when necessary, so opting out of our mailings could cause you to miss important information.

Capitalizing on Changes in Patent Law

Faculty:

December 12, 1-2pm ET

This lecture provides a strategy for the re-litigation of a patent-related issue (e.g., inequitable conduct) following a change in the law that previously governed the issue. The presentation will focus on the renewed enforcement of patents held unenforceable prior to the en banc decision of Therasense, Inc. v. Becton, Dickinson & Co., a decision in which the Federal Circuit made substantially more difficult the burden of proving patent unenforceability on grounds of inequitable conduct. This presentation will be useful to those who have had patents deemed unenforceable prior to the change in law by Therasense.

Jonathan Hill
Freeborn & Peters LLP
Chicago

Please join an expert presenter for highlights that will include an overview of the law of issue preclusion (collateral estoppel), which generally operates to preclude litigation over an issue previously decided in a final judgment, but for a change in the legal standard that governs the issue; an overview of the Therasense decision and characteristics of pre-Therasense unenforceability decisions that may merit re-litigation under the current law; and considerations (e.g., lapse of patents for unpaid maintenance fees) that may influence the decision whether to newly enforce patents held unenforceable under pre-Therasense legal standards.

Essentials of Maritime Law

Faculty:

December 13, 1-2pm ET

Bruce G. Paulsen
Seward & Kissel LLP
New York City

Michael S. Timpone
Seward & Kissel LLP
New York City

Currently, 90% of the world's goods are carried in ships. Accordingly, maritime commerce affects nearly every product bought or sold in the United States. As the shipping industry has modernized, in addition to traditional bank finance, shipping companies have gained access to the public markets in the United States, and many shipping companies are now publicly listed here. Further, because of the world economic crisis and downturn in the shipping markets, many shipping companies have sought alternative financing arrangements and some have sought protection from creditors in the U.S. under the Bankruptcy Code. It is therefore not uncommon for lawyers of all sorts to be exposed to maritime law concepts. This session will provide an overview of those concepts, review what makes maritime law different than other species of commercial law, and touch on certain specific areas of maritime law.

Please join expert faculty as they discuss what makes maritime law different; maritime finance; maritime litigation; and creditors' rights, ship arrest and seizure of assets.

NY Attorney General and NY Department of Financial Services: Statutory Authority and Recent Initiatives Impacting the Financial Services Industry

December 13, 3-4pm ET

In this One-Hour Briefing, we will explore the significant role New York's Attorney General and its Department of Financial Services (DFS) play in the financial services industry, and why these two state-level agencies will continue to exert significant power over the industry, especially with federal oversight potentially shrinking. Although President Trump has promised to reduce federal regulation and law enforcement efforts regarding the financial services industry, both New York Attorney General Eric Schneiderman and Maria Vullo, the superintendent of New York's DFS, have made it clear – through their remarks and regulatory and enforcement initiatives – that they stand ready to exercise their broad authority to fill any federal regulatory gaps that may emerge with shrinking federal oversight.

Expert faculty will discuss the statutory powers of the New York Attorney General and the NY DFS; recent legislative efforts to expand the NY DFS's enforcement authority; current NY Attorney General and NY DFS enforcement matters impacting the financial services industry; and NY Attorney General and NY DFS initiatives to fill potential federal regulatory and law enforcement gaps.

Fed's TLAC Rule

January 8, 1-2pm ET

In December of 2016, the Federal Reserve Board adopted final rules relating to a long-term debt, total loss absorbing capacity (TLAC), and clean holding company requirement. The rules apply to U.S. G-SIBs and also foreign banks that are G-SIBs and subject to an intermediate holding company requirement. Please join an expert presenter for an overview of the Fed's final rules; principal differences between the Fed's rules and the FSB approach; considerations for foreign banks subject to the rules; an assessment of the U.S. internal TLAC requirement compared to the IHC requirement proposed by the European Commission; and effects on other financial products.

Playing Well with Others: The Necessity of Professionalism Among Lawyers

January 9, 1-2pm ET

Lawyers were once among the most trusted and well-regarded professionals in the country. Over the last several decades, however, public opinion of the legal profession has declined. Recent poll results show that only 18% of people rate the ethical standards of lawyers as "High" or "Very High," while 37% rate lawyers' ethical standards as "Low" or "Very Low."

These statistics are troubling not only anecdotally but because they may make it harder for attorneys to defend against claims of legal malpractice when public perception of attorneys is low. Although some of this bad reputation stems from popular culture representations of attorneys, attorneys have the ability to turn the tide.

Please join expert faculty for a discussion that will focus on what attorneys should know and what they can do to practice professionalism, including responses and edicts from courts and bars on professionalism; being a zealous advocate without getting personal; disagreeing with opposing counsel without being disagreeable; and treating the law as a profession with individualized services.

Request for Proposal ("RFP") Process: Structure, Substance and Additional Considerations for Corporate and Outside Counsel

January 10, 1-2pm ET

This Briefing will explore how in-house counsel can successfully master the Request for Proposal process when hiring counsel, experts, consultants, and vendors for litigation or transactions. Our panel will guide attendees through the entire RFP process – the necessary preparation; the drafting process; best practices in analyzing information received (and following up regarding same); evaluating potential fees/expenses, required workload, and alternative approaches to your matter; and best corporate/firm practices to maximize the benefits of what in today's legal market is the most useful first step to address and prepare for an upcoming litigation or transaction.

Expert faculty will address the fundamental underpinnings of the RFP process; how ethics and the Rules of Professional Conduct apply to the RFP Process; preparation for the RFP process; structure and substance of RFPs; incorporating the various stages of litigation/transaction into your RFP; best corporate practices to maximize information received on budgeting and anticipated costs for your litigation/transaction; the interview and selection, and completion/transition process; and best practices, success stories, and lessons learned during the RFP process. Through their widely diverse range of experience on these issues (from in-house, private practice, and fee expert perspectives), presenters will provide insights on how to maximize information obtained, allow law firms to put their best foot forward, and lay the foundation for a collaborative, transparent relationship between client and counsel.

Helping Lawyers Look for Red Flags in Financial Statements

January 11, 1-2pm ET

Understanding financial statements and their relevance in various litigations is becoming increasingly important in the aftermath of the financial crisis. It is imperative that attorneys develop a working understanding and analytical framework of accounting to strengthen their background. This one-hour course is designed to give attorneys an overview of accounting standards, their relevance, and areas of the financial statements that are subject to manipulation and/or fraud. By using three real case studies the instructors are able to showcase three main areas of the financial statements that are susceptible to fraud and red flags.

Faculty:

Ann Gittleman
Duff & Phelps, LLC
New York City

Jenna O'Brien
Duff & Phelps, LLC
New York City

Please join expert faculty and you will learn major types of financial statement fraud, using real-life cases to illustrate the schemes; the underlying accounting principles that are violated when fraud is perpetrated; red flags and other techniques useful in detecting financial statement fraud schemes; and how to read a financial statement.

Disaster Relief Funding: FEMA Grants – Key Considerations for Contractors

January 12, 1-2pm ET

Over the past several months, the United States has been hit by many natural disasters that have left state and local communities devastated. The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), which is the federal agency that manages the nation's disaster relief efforts, has subsequently provided federal funds to individuals as well as local and state governments to help aid relief efforts. As FEMA and other government agencies commit federal funds to the impacted areas, potential contractors should understand how they can be awarded funds – and the key considerations that come with being a recipient, subrecipient or contractor under one of these public assistance vehicles.

Please join an expert presenter for a discussion that will describe funding vehicles and how to identify possible opportunities; consider key accounting and compliance considerations; and address impacts of non-compliance and fraud in emergency spending.

DA Zappala,

I was very sorry to hear about Rick's passing. I had spoken to him that week, a few days beforehand. I thought very highly of Rick, as a trusted friend and as a dedicated professional.

I paid my respects at the funeral home last week. I was hoping to bump into you and personally express my condolences to you and your staff as well. I know Rick was very happy working for you. In my conversations with him over the years, he had great respect and admiration for you. I am sure that it will take time to fill the void that Rick has left, both personally and professionally. I will miss him as well.

Recent FDA Policy Changes and How You Can Prepare to Embrace Them in 2018

In FDA-regulated industries, firms must understand and comply with the laws and regulations that apply to FDA-regulated medical and other products such as food, drugs, biologics, cosmetics and medical devices including in vitro diagnostics. The FDA conducts investigations to enforce these regulations. Are you ready to tap into the opportunities and learn the lessons from FDA enforcement and inspection practices to prepare for 2018?

This session by expert speaker Dr. David Lim, Ph.D., RAC, ASQ-CQA, will discuss the FDA inspection practices to help you better prepare for and manage FDA inspections in a proactive and effective manner in 2018. You will learn actionable tips and get advice in view of the recent FDA policy changes. David will discuss practical, actionable, and sustainable guidance on how to prepare for a sustainable FDA inspection. He will show you how to manage the FDA inspection process, including dos and don'ts before, during and after the inspection.

Session Highlights

- Laws and regulations that apply for FDA-regulated medical and other products
- Recent FDA policy changes
- Manuals and guides to prepare for a sustainable FDA inspection
- Managing the FDA inspection process
- Most common deficiencies
- Actionable inspection preparation and management tips

- Communication with EQ skills
- Employee training
- Overview of actual case studies

Dear District Attorney:

The Pennsylvania Board of Probation and Parole, in accordance with the Prisons and Parole Code, 61 Pa.C.S. §§ 6131, 6132, 6137 (g), 6139 (c), has scheduled the above-named inmate for parole consideration. Review of the case, including an interview, is scheduled for FEBRUARY 2018. It is the practice of the Board to interview an inmate four months prior to the expiration of the minimum sentence in order to facilitate the timely completion of the decision-making and release processes. Please be advised, that the inmate will not be released from confinement prior to the expiration of the minimum sentence if approved for parole. Your recommendations regarding the inmate's possible release on parole will be taken into consideration by the Board. To insure that your recommendations are provided during the Board's decision-making process, please submit the enclosed Memorandum form or other written comments by JANUARY 11, 2018. If not received by that date, the Board shall presume that there are no objections to the inmate's release on parole.

The Crime Victims Act, 18 P.S. §§ 11.101 et seq., includes the right of crime victims to submit prior comment on certain release decisions made by the Board of Probation and Parole. Any crime victim wishing to exercise his/her right under this law should contact the Pennsylvania Office of the Victim Advocate at 1-800-563-6399 (Board of Probation and Parole).

If you have further questions, please do not hesitate to contact my office.

Respectfully,

John J. Talaber, Esq.
